

Leigh Ann Rodgers

Senior Consultant

Leigh Ann Rodgers is an executive coach, team coach, and leadership trainer celebrated for her expertise in team cohesion and organizational transformation. With over 25 years of experience, Leigh Ann has partnered with leaders worldwide to cultivate high-performing teams that thrive in today's dynamic environments. Known for her collaborative, pragmatic, and empathetic approach, Leigh Ann empowers leaders to create spaces where teams reach their fullest potential and find lasting fulfillment in their work.

Early in her career, Leigh Ann was instrumental in creating SunTrust Bank's first management training program and has since guided Fortune 500 clients, including Chick-fil-A, The Kellogg Company, MARS, and the CDC, through innovative leadership and team development initiatives. She is also the founder of the Team Consultant Academy, a program equipping consultants to build high-impact teams, and the creator of the Leading Better Teams podcast, where she shares insights on building effective, resilient teams.

A respected figure in her field, Leigh Ann's dedication was recognized with the President's Award for her service as Vice President of Programming for the Southeast Association of Facilitators—an honor she received two years in a row. Her commitment to fostering professional growth and collaboration has cemented her reputation as a trusted partner who brings out the best in teams.

Leigh Ann holds a Master's in Education from The University of Georgia. Based on St. Simons Island, Georgia, she enjoys pickleball, traveling, and volunteering weekly at a farm animal sanctuary.

"I would enthusiastically recommend Leigh Ann for anyone ready to take their team to the next level of excellence. Her workshops are dynamic, engaging, and capability-building. The results are evident in our team's day-to-day practices and enhanced cohesion."

— Erick Marmolejo, Senior Manager, Whirlpool Corporation